Decibels

Sound intensity is measured in decibels (dB) and is a logarithmic scale. The human ear can hear sounds from about 0 dB to 140 dB. Sounds above 120 dB are considered painful and can cause permanent hearing damage. Prolonged exposure to sounds above 85 dB can also lead to hearing loss. The decibel scale is used to measure the intensity of various sounds, including music, traffic, and industrial machinery. It is important to be aware of the decibel levels of the sounds you are exposed to and take steps to protect your hearing if necessary.

PLD

Personal Loudness Level (PLD) is a measure of the loudness of a sound as perceived by an individual. It is measured in decibels (dB) and is used to determine the level of hearing protection required for a given sound source. PLD is determined by the frequency and intensity of the sound, as well as the individual's hearing ability. It is important to know your PLD for various sound sources to ensure you are protected from hearing damage.

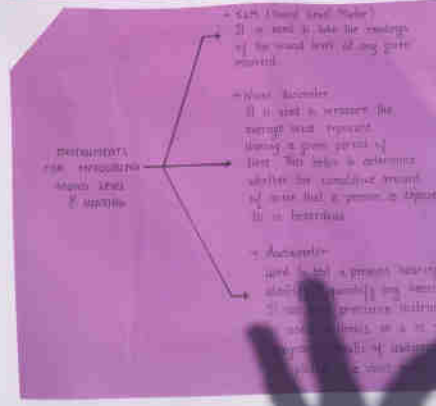

Types of Hearing Aids

Hearing aids are devices that help improve hearing by amplifying sound. There are several types of hearing aids, including behind-the-ear (BTE), in-the-ear (ITE), and cochlear implants. BTE hearing aids are the most common and are worn behind the ear. ITE hearing aids are smaller and are worn inside the ear. Cochlear implants are surgically implanted and provide a direct electrical signal to the cochlea. Each type of hearing aid has its own advantages and disadvantages, and it is important to consult with a hearing professional to determine the best option for your needs.

Microphones

- They convert sound waves into electrical signals. They are used in a wide variety of applications, including recording, broadcasting, and communication.
- They are used in a microphone which has a membrane or flexible diaphragm.
- A pressure wave (sound waves) causes the membrane to vibrate. This causes an electrical signal.
- This data goes to an electronic device in a meter (calibrated to read sound in dB).
- This signal is carried on by an electronic circuitry which then measures the sound characteristics.

YES ! YOUR CHILD CAN HEAR TOO- HOW A COCHLEAR IMPLANT CAN HELP?

Hearing Loss refers to a partial or complete loss of hearing in one or both ears. Because of its irreversible and progressive nature the consequences can be debilitating. According to WHO (2018) data, the prevalence of hearing impairment (HI) in India is around 6.3% (63 million people suffering from significant auditory loss). It is also alarming that four in every 1000 children suffer from severe to profound hearing loss, with over 100,000 babies being born with hearing deficiency every year. The numbers are only expected to be on the rise, however near normal hearing and speech capabilities in these children can be achieved if we act upon it. Early Identification and timely Intervention play a key role in improving the quality of life of those individuals with Hearing Impairment. A qualified Audiologist can identify Hearing Loss can within one month of age and intervention can commence immediately (inclusive of Speech and Language Therapy).

Cochlear Implant is a small yet complex device used as a popular intervention option for hearing loss in children especially in those who do not benefit from Hearing Aids. A qualified surgeon will perform the surgery which is usually associated with nil risks. The surgeon will place the electrode inside the organ of Hearing, the cochlea. After the healing time which is usually 2-3 weeks after surgery, the external component is fixed over the ears.

After activation of the device, with the combined effects of Auditory Verbal Therapy, Speech & Language Therapy and periodic device tuning (MAPping), the child can achieve near normal hearing and speech capabilities.

In India despite the advent of Cochlear Implants in the early 90's, the general public seem to be less aware and a major portion of those who are aware have accessibility issues due to financial constraints. However in today's world there are several schemes that offer financial assistance which many are oblivious of.

In an effort to curb this lack of awareness, Dr S.R. Chandrasekhar Institute of Speech and Hearing, Bengaluru observed the International Day of Cochlear Implant on 25th February by hosting a free consultation on “ Does your child need a cochlear Implant” by in-house experts. The consultants were: Mr Suresh Thondatarya -Associate Professor in Speech & Hearing and Research Co-ordinator, MsRatna Shetty- Head, Mothers Training Centre , Ms KalpanaHegde- Senior Auditory Habilitationist, Mr.Shobin James- Audiologist and Assistant Professor, Ms PrajnaKodgi- Speech Language Pathologist & Assistant Professor and Ms Sushma- Auditory Habilitationist. This activity was organised by the Department of Hearing Studies in collaboration with the Internal Quality Assurance cell (IQAC).

Several beneficiaries actively participated and raised queries on the roadmap to successful cochlear implantation for their children. They were also briefed on the several state level and central level schemes that can aid in financial assistance for those in need. Success stories of children who have received cochlear implant were also shown to them to comfort them and curtail their fears if any. Through this event it was possible to absolve the insecurities associated with cochlear implants in several parents and guide them towards offering their child-the gift of hearing.

Dr SR Chandrasekhar Institute of Speech and Hearing , Aided by Lions club of Bangalore East , also a unit of Bangalore Speech and Hearing Trust has a 24 years of experience in cochlear implantation under the able guidance of Dr Madhuri Gore and her enthusiastic team of Audiologists. The institute, since its inception has been actively catering to those with Hearing Impairment and providing a wide range of Speech and Hearing services to individuals of all age groups.

On the account of International Women's Day 2022 , the Women empowerment committee, which is a part of subcommittee of IQAC (Internal Quality assurance cell) organised an event on 08/03/2022. The event was in line with this year's theme: Gender equality today for a sustainable tomorrow with the tagline #breakthebias.
